NPR Reports On Demand

Joe Grinstead, Director of Consulting

When used to its fullest extent, the NPR Report Writer is a powerful tool that enables MEDITECH hospitals to leverage HIS data and effectively monitor and analyze performance trends across the organization. NPR reports give physicians, caregivers, and executives in-depth analyses of key clinical, business, and operational data, allowing them to make informed, proactive decisions.

However, despite the powerful information that can be obtained via the NPR Report Writer, we have found that many hospitals are not using it to its full potential. In some cases, hospitals either don't have an understanding of the full capabilities of the report writer or lack the staff skilled in writing reports. That's why I am pleased to announce a new service from the MEDITECH Solutions Group within Perot Systems that will enable hospitals to fully exploit the power of the NPR Report Writer without incurring the expense of training and dedicating internal resources to the report writing tasks.

Our NPR Report Writer Service is designed to help you access the data you need from your MEDITECH HIS and generate effective reports designed specifically for your hospital's environment. The virtual service will be delivered through remote access to your hospital's MEDITECH MAGIC or Client/Server system. Because of our in-depth knowledge of the MEDITECH system and our application expertise, we not only will write the reports to your specifications, we can also help you define the reports that will give you the most meaningful information.

I'm also pleased that because the MEDITECH Solutions Group can leverage the support of Perot Systems' vast professional resources and skill sets, we can deliver the service at a rate we don't believe that you'll see elsewhere. When you consider that you won't need to train and retain dedicated staff onsite, you'll find the service to be an incredible value.

When you engage the service, we can help you quickly clear a backlog of report projects or define and create new reports, no matter how simple or complex. We can write sophisticated reports that access data across all MEDITECH modules, and perhaps, create reports that you might not have known possible. Most importantly, the reports will be presented in a manner that is most meaningful to your department managers.

As are all of the services we offer, the NPR Report Writer Service is backed by a dedicated organization that provides daily application support and consulting services to MEDITECH organizations around the world. No other organization has the vast global resources, skill sets, and MEDITECH expertise offered by Perot Systems.
